

This proposed regulation is an abomination. The fact that it could even be considered in the "home of the free" is an outrage. What I do in my own home is my personal business. The government has no right to dictate how I use my computer. Regulation like this is the ear-mark of a totalitarian state. Trying to force regulation of the marketplace instead of allowing natural market demand is ridiculous. The people in this country have a right to fair use. To forcefully cripple technological advancement is no way to promote true progress.
